"A slide rule is a very effective tool" — Andries de Man

Uit een interview met Elizabeth Wehner, die gedurende de Tweede Wereldoorlog engineering cadet was bij de Curtis Wright Company en aan Purdue University studeerde, komt het volgende citaat.

"Well, I was only 18, and I was very interested in meeting some of these engineers, so I stayed behind after the rest of the gals had left the building and when two very good looking young engineers came down the hall, I was studying my slide rule, and I said: "Now I wonder if one of you all could show me how to work this?"

Een 'still' uit het interview met Elizabeth Wehner (09:12) [1].

"My dad taught engineering and taught me how to use a slide rule before I left home, but that didn't matter. I mean, you have to have a way to meet people. I met two very lovely young men that way. A very effective tool!"
